ALL POWERS AGREE TO KEEP HANDS OFF CHINA

International Agreement To Supplant Anglo-Japanese Alliance

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Agreement of the powers Monday on the principles which they propose to observe in dealing with China is pronounced by a member of the British delegation the first definite step in the direction of the Anglo-American-Japanese understanding, which is designed to supplant the Anglo-Japanese alliance.

It is predicted by the members of both the British and Japanese delegations that, when this understanding on the settlement of far eastern questions is reached, England and Japan will join in announcement of the dissolution of their alliance.

FOLLOWS SIGNIFICANT STATEMENT

The British delegation seized upon two occasions to explain the British attitude toward the alliance and the dissolution thereof. These pronouncements followed:

hard upon a double barreled onslaught on the alliance Monday by Lord Northcliffe in China and Wickham Steed, editor of the London Times, who is in Washington, and the demand for the termination of the alliance uttered by the labor party of England, which is already a formidable aspirant for control of the British government.

OLD ALLIANCE OBSOLETE

Speaking of the agreement on principles relating to China, the spokesman for the British delegation Monday said:

"If this very favorable result is continued, then from the whole of this might come a complete agreement supported by as many powers as might want to support it, which would make not only obsolete clauses of the Anglo-Japanese alliance useless, but the treaty itself useless.

"There has been no crystallization of British opinion, no movement of British opinion on the subject of the Anglo-Japanese alliance in the last few days. The alliance admittedly in some respects is obsolete. That is obvious to any one who reads the agreement and considers the conditions at the time it was concluded by the two powers. No agreement between nations can remain eternally fresh, cannot be as fresh always as when it was entered into, and which was drafted to meet a situation of the time when it was drafted.

ARE STILL 'FRIENDS'

"There are features in the alliance which have become obsolete as a result of the flow of events of the last nineteen years. That does not mean that the principle of friendship between Great Britain and Japan which underlies the alliance has become obsolete. That friendship is as fresh as it ever was. The alliance itself does not mean a lack of friendship between Great Britain and any other nation in the world.

"Mr. Balfour has hoped that a tripartite agreement might take the place of the alliance, and by that I do not mean a treaty. I have not mentioned 'abrogation' of the treaty. The tripartite agreement might take the form of a quintuple agreement by the inclusion of China and other nations. It would be an agreement expressing the common principles as regards policies in the far east.

EIGHT POWERS AGREE

"You will receive from secretary general as a result of this afternoon's work in committee a draft in which eight powers sitting have agreed. It was a unanimous agreement. China could not properly agree because it related to China. This draft is a step towards the formulation of a common policy in the far east.

"At the time the treaty was drafted there was a very definite menace to the peace of the far east from the imperial Russia and from the imperial Germany of that day. Our ideas with regard to the Anglo-Japanese alliance are elastic. Our two main principles are perfectly simple. First, the interest of the world and of the British empire in peace; and, second, that peace will only be secured if it is established on an understanding between Great Britain and America, between Great Britain and Japan, between Great Britain and France, and between Great Britain and all the rest of the nations.

"Our policy here is entirely to get the best possible basis we can find for friendly, peaceful, relations between the various nations."

AGREEMENT ON GENERAL PRINCIPLES REACHED IN DEBATE UPON ROOT PLAN

SIMONDS SAYS:

Conference Virtually Over Now and Outlines Chief Results

BY FRANK H. SIMONDS
(Copyright, 1921, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)
WASHINGTON, D. C.—The conference of Washington is practically over. All that remains to be done is minor and despite present superficial quarrels and bickerings the results could be written today. These results will be:

FIRST—The limitation of naval construction, plus measurably scrapping the existing units.

SECOND—The postponement and not impossible the prevention of an American-Japanese war.

THIRD—The acceptance on the part of each country of a set of abstract principles in the far east without any form of guarantee for their application.

FOURTH—In some way not yet quite clear the elimination of the Anglo-Japanese alliance.

WILL RESPECT INDEPENDENCE AND TERRITORY

Commits Powers also to Policy of Providing Fullest Opportunity for Development

AGREES WITH DEMANDS OF THE CHINESE IN PRINCIPLE

Effect, however, Depends Upon Applications of Provisions in Detail

To Settle Details

WASHINGTON.—By The Associated Press.—Unanimous adoption of the resolutions declaring general principles for the settlement of Chinese questions is not the end of efforts in China's behalf.

It was stated Tuesday on British authority that it was the purpose of the committee of the whole on the far east to press forward with an arrangement of details which would include the importance of Kiao Chau and the Shantung peninsula in part.

Instead of a number of separate agreements and treaties between China and various powers the British say it is planned to have the resolution adopted Monday supplemented by detailed stipulations accepted by all of the parties.

TAX REVISION BILL APPROVED IN HOUSE BY BIG MAJORITY

Sharp Clash Between Penrose and Heflin Marks Beginning of Debate in Senate

SEEK FINAL ACTION ON BILL BEFORE WEDNESDAY NIGHT

Opposition in Senate Centers About Major Proposals

WASHINGTON.—Disorder marked the beginning Tuesday of Senate consideration of the conference report on the tax bill, the climax being reached in the unusual procedure of expending substantial remarks from the record.

The words spoken out were contained in a verbal clash between Senators Penrose, republican, Pennsylvania, and Heflin, democrat, Alabama, in which Mr. Penrose referred to the "black darkness of the state" represented by Mr. Heflin, and the Alabama senator characterized Mr. Penrose as the representative of "predatory interests."

During the session of House approval by the overwhelming majority of 232 to 109 the tax revision bill reached the senate Tuesday morning. There was doubt as to the full force of the opposition that would develop but the republican leaders said they were determined to put the measure through in time for congress to take a get-away by Wednesday.

Senate conferees needed on only seven of the amendments adopted by the senate, but in many other cases they found it necessary to accept these amendments to the senate changes. Apparently there are three major proposals around which much of the opposition in the senate will center: the striking out of the increased inheritance tax and the gift tax amendments and the elimination of the amendment authorizing either house of congress to obtain income tax returns from the treasury.

PLAN EARLY CHRISTMAS SHOPPING CAMPAIGN IN THIS CITY NEXT MONTH

BLAINE-MORGAN DISPUTE TO END ONLY AT POLLS

Morgan Expected to be Candidate for Governor to Oppose Blaine

MADISON, Wis.—There is general opinion expressed among politicians here that Governor Blaine has opened a controversy with Attorney General Morgan that will not end until the primaries of September, 1922. Those close to the attorney general are of the opinion that he will be called on to oppose Governor Blaine for reelection at that time, and that recent developments have strengthened that belief.

Mr. Morgan has been receiving letters from political leaders in all parts of the state asking that he be a candidate for the chief executive's position at the next election. While no official word has been given out, it is believed quite likely that he will give a definite reply to these inquiries within a short time, explaining his stand.

New, Secret Exchange

The exchange of letters which Governor Blaine opened last week with a criticism of the attorney general for what the governor said was delay in prosecuting certain cases started by the attorney general's department, and the reply of Mr. Morgan that any delay was caused by the executive's refusal to co-operate with him, has been followed by another and more sharp exchange. These letters have not been allowed to reach the public, however.

Governor Blaine has withheld his letter from newspapers, and Attorney General Morgan refuses to divulge his contents. He is known to have replied, and likewise has withheld his letter until the governor allows his statement to be made public.

This definite estrangement of the two leading departments of the state government is said by politicians to give credence to the belief that Governor Blaine feels that Mr. Morgan will be called on to oppose him in the 1922 primaries. The attorney general has said that he believes these political differences should be put aside for the time, however, in the interest of state service, and has offered his cooperation to the governor.

SANTA CLAUS TO HOLD FORTH IN A BIG RECEPTION

Also to Visit all Surrounding Cities and Villages on Saturday, Dec. 3

An early Christmas shopping campaign was launched at a meeting of the merchants' bureau, following a dinner at the Chamber of Commerce Monday night.

In accordance with plans outlined at this meeting, Santa Claus will arrive in La Crosse and visit all the surrounding cities and villages as far east as Tomah, south to Viroqua, and Lansing, north to Lakeview, and Trempealeau and west to Houston, on Saturday, December 3.

The time of the arrival of Santa Claus in each village and city will be announced in the local papers so the children of the various places will know when to meet him.

Santa Here Also

La Crosse's official Santa Claus will arrive here by train on the same day and will be met at the depot by a band, according to the plan decided upon last night. He will be given the key to the city by the mayor. From 4 to 6 in the afternoon Santa will give a reception for all the children of the city at the Chamber of Commerce. This will be the biggest reception in the history of the city, in all probability.

Friday night, December 2, will mark the formal opening of the Christmas shopping season in La Crosse. At 8 o'clock that evening lights will be turned on in all downtown stores and windows, and the stores will be open for one hour, for the inspection of shoppers. No goods will be sold during this hour. Shopping will begin Saturday morning, December 3.

Plan Five Dollar Day

A five-dollar day will be put on early in December, the exact date to be announced later.

Throughout the Christmas shopping season from December 3 to 24, a Christmas grumpy will be located at the Chamber of Commerce. This person will serve as a go-between for persons who desire to present gifts and want certain information regarding those to whom the presents are given. For instance, grumpy will find out the size of the gift which any person wears, without betraying the name of the person for whom the information is sought.

Ford Day Success

That the recent Ford day was one of the biggest advertising stunts ever put on for the city was the announcement made at the meeting Monday night. Hundreds of inquiries have been received regarding the plans for the day, from all over the country. Trade journals carried big stories regarding Ford day in La Crosse during the past month.

U. S. TO TAKE AWAY LICENSES OF MANY BREWERS OF NATION

WASHINGTON.—Revocation of scores of brewers permits for the manufacture of near beer was said by officials Tuesday to be under consideration by the prohibition department.

Investigation has disclosed, it was said, that many brewers holding licenses to manufacture near beer have been making beer with an alcoholic content well beyond the legal limit and selling it as a non-alcoholic beverage.

"DRY ARMY" COMES FROM WASHINGTON TO CLEAN UP STATE

MILWAUKEE, Wis.—Fifty federal prohibition agents are said to be in Milwaukee ready for a raid on liquor law violators, following a week's operation in Racine and surrounding territory.

Local leaders among prohibition officers profess to be ignorant of any federal officers' presence here. Unofficially, however, it has been learned that search warrants and legal paraphernalia have been prepared for more than a week in readiness for the dry army's coming.

The men are said to have come here from Washington as a part of the national clean-up campaign of prohibition Commissioner Roy A. Haynes, which started a month ago.

ITALY PLANS CUT OF ARMY SERVICE TO EIGHT MONTHS

WASHINGTON.—By The Associated Press.—Italy has no fear of any of her European neighbors and her sole desire is to have the feelings aroused by the war subsided and give way to the spirit of peace, an official spokesman of the Italian delegation to the arms conference said Tuesday following the lead given by Senator Schaubert in his speech Monday before the conference.

The spokesman declared that Italy had not even awaited the call for this conference to begin the reduction of her army, which now has been brought down to less than 200,000 men. Moreover, the period of military service which before the war was 2 1/2 years already had been substantially reduced, it was explained, and probably would be cut to eight months.

FOUR AMERICANS TAKEN CAPTIVE BY MEXICAN BANDITS

WASHINGTON.—Four Americans were captured late Monday by Mexican bandits at Santa Eulalia, twenty-two miles from Chihuahua, the state department was advised Tuesday. After being held for ransom, the party was released at the end of a four-hour period when no ransom was forthcoming.

These captured were Edgar Butts, a mining engineer of the American Smelting & Refining Co., and wife; William Beahm, another employee; and Miss Mary Long, daughter of a former American consular agent at Paraiso.

SIX BADGER HUNTERS KILLED DURING THE 1921 DEER SEASON

MADISON, Wis.—Six dead and four wounded have been the toll of the Wisconsin and Upper Michigan deer season which closes Tuesday, the state conservation commission announced. This number may be added to during the day.

D. J. Meyer, 42, of Oconto Falls was instantly killed near Pentecost, Mich., when a Shawano hunter shot him for a deer, bringing the list of dead to six. Two more were wounded, Fred Fisher of Oconto Falls and James Sorenson of Bradley.

Loss interest is being shown in the battle to be waged for other state officers than that of governor, although it is certain that opposition will be shown to re-election of Lieutenant Governor Geo. F. Comings, Secretary of State Hall and State Treasurer Johnson.

David Summerville, member of the legislature from Ladysmith, and Riley S. Young of Darion, speaker of the assembly, are both spoken of as candidates.

BRITON ORIGINATED IDEA OF HONORING UNKNOWN SOLDIER

Plan Set Forth by Young Clergyman in Letter to British Newspaper

OTHER NATIONS FOLLOWED IN LEAD OF GREAT BRITAIN

Author of Suggestion Served in the British Army

NEW YORK.—The idea of conferring a nation's proudest honors on the body of an unknown soldier as was done by the United States at Arlington National cemetery on Armistice Day, was first put forward in England by Nathaniel Raitton, a young clergyman and war veteran.

According to information reaching American Legion headquarters here, England's initiative in holding a great public mourning service at the foot of one of the nameless heroes was taken after Raitton had published in a London paper an open letter addressed to the English public.

This article pointed out that many thousands of soldiers had died on the battlefield for their country and their ideals and had gone to their graves unidentified, and urged that such a soldier, utterly lost in the great confusion, typified more perfectly than could any other of the victims of the war the spirit of self-sacrifice and love of flag and country.

Urging a great demonstration in the form of a public funeral for an "Unknown Soldier," the letter expressed the thought that such a solemn ceremony would live forever in the hearts of British subjects the profound lessons of war and a worthy appreciation of the sacrifice of the young men who laid down their lives.

England's lead in noting on the suggestion was quickly followed by France, Italy and the United States. Nathaniel Raitton is the son of George S. Raitton, England's first Salvation Army commissioner, who was found dead in a little railroad station in Germany shortly before the outbreak of the war. Young Raitton, who at that time was a theological student, enlisted at once and served through many of the desperate battles of the early part of the war.

FIGHT AGAINST NEWBERRY BLAMED ON "WILSONITES"

WASHINGTON.—Attempts to keep Senator Newberry, a Republican of Michigan, out of the senate, were charged by Senator Watson, Democrat, Georgia, Monday "to left-wing Wilsonites" in and out of the senate. Attacking Henry Ford, contestant for Mr. Newberry's seat, Senator Watson said the real issue in the election contest was the league of nations controversy.

U. S. COURT TO REVIEW GRAIN TRADING ACT

WASHINGTON.—Recent legislation by congress regulating future trading in grains and providing for the admission to membership in grain exchanges of co-operative farmers' associations will be reviewed by the supreme court. Announcement was made by the court that arguments in the case would be heard the week beginning January 3.

MORE STUDENTS ATTENDING CHURCH NOW THAN IN FORMER YEARS SAY PASTORS OF MADISON; SATURDAY NIGHT PARTIES KEEP SOME AWAY

MADISON, Wis.—Are university students turning Sunday into a holiday instead of a holy day? Do Saturday night dances mean late sleeping Sunday, and consequently no church attendance? That Saturday night parties do keep students away from church on Sunday is the opinion of university pastors. More students attend the Sunday services now than in former years, they say, in spite of the modern tendencies which make Sunday a holiday instead of a holy day.

"Human inertia is the first factor that keeps students and other Madison people away from church," said the Rev. Edward W. Bakeman, university pastor of the University Methodist church. "They prefer to lounge around on Sunday. It takes a real attraction and real effort to get them to church every Sunday."

"No doubt that late parties, usually dancing parties, account for late sleeping on Sunday morning. Postponement of Friday and Saturday assignments until Sunday keeps students from church."

"One-third of university students attend church regularly on Sunday. Two-thirds go nowhere. All churches, however, are full to capacity every Sunday. If by any sudden impulse or virtue all the church members of the university would attend at once, fully 4,000 would fail to find seats."

"The practice of Sunday theater-going and 'joy-riding' is objectionable."

because it introduces the continental Sabbath, which is disconcerting and does not fit one for his work on Monday."

"The student's loyalty to the church is the test whether he will get out to church on Sunday morning," said Rev. J. E. Scales, congregational university pastor. "Out of the number of our student list 60 per cent of them attend church on Sunday morning."

"Sunday is neither a holiday or a holy day, but a day of rest and opportunity for one to be inspired with higher ideals and purposes. There should be wholesome recreation on Sunday, but it should be of character as to be elevating. I object to Sunday movies because they are not elevating."

"Holiday and holy day are synonymous words," said the Rev. S. M. Cleveland of the Episcopal church. "and Sunday should be a holiday. A holy day originated as a day of recreation and fasting. Sunday is a day set aside for worship, a day to go to church. If a student or anyone goes to church it is up to him what he does the rest of the day. Not a set of do's and don'ts should be his guide but his own conscience should tell him what to do. If he consciously does wrong it is himself that he hurts, and not God."

William and Mary college has given Harding a device putting him one ahead of the thermometer.

MOVEMENT FOR NEW FARM ORGANIZATION UNDER WAY IN STATE

Conference of Badger Farmers
Called at Madison on November 25th

MADISON, Wis.—A conference of representative Wisconsin farmers to consider problems directly affecting agricultural interests with a view to laying plans for a possible new organization, will be held here Friday, November 25, on call of Judge A. H. Long, legal representative of the state railroad commission.

Judge Long says that no definite program will be laid before the farmers present, but rather that they will be asked to suggest means for uniting agricultural forces of the state to promote the real farmers' interests. Under present conditions, he believes that agriculture is called on to bear the greatest burden of depression, and to have the most ineffective organization for bettering its condition, and promoting its welfare.

The judge declares that the defeat of the Non-partisan league in North Dakota, and its possible weakening in this state as a result, has not prompted the present meeting. He expects that it will result in a plan for either a political organization, or an organization which can study the farmers' needs and suggest definite means of fulfilling them.

College Course of Public Health

A new educational feature has just been inaugurated in the Public Health Course of the Harvard-Technology school in co-operation with the Harvard Graduate School of Education. The course is the first of its kind in this country and is intended to supply instructors who can teach hygiene or superintend with such instruction in the public schools and who can correlate the various health activities of the public school system in the most advantageous way. One year's study will be required to complete the course.

The First Ox-Tail Soup

During the Reign of Terror in Paris in 1793 many of the nobility were reduced to starvation and beggary. The abattoirs sent their hides fresh to the butchers without removing the tails, and in cleaning them the tails were thrown away. One of these noble beggars asked for a tail, and it was willingly given to him. He took it to his bedchamber and made the first dish of ox-tail soup. He told others of his good luck, and they annoyed the butchers so much that a price was put upon them.

Taking a Chance

Junior was in the habit of coming to the table with a dirty face, and, of course, had to be sent away to wash.

One time, his mother, nearly losing patience, said: "Junior, why do you persist in coming to the table without washing? You know I always send you away."

"Well," said Junior, meekly, "once you forget."—Chicago Tribune.

"To Be or Not to Be?"

HUGHES-HARDING plans oppose cessation of battleship construction during the conference. Great Britain stopped building, but her program proposes going on "moderately" when the conference is over. Hughes will not stop now, but his program is to actually and absolutely stop building for at least ten years. Many Americans think this country should have stopped building the day the armistice was opened, beating Great Britain to it. Hughes prefers to put up the grim alternative of stopping quite, or building with might and main. Doubtless he hopes to convince the other powers that if it is to be an armament race, America is on scratch and ready to go. Actually launching the West Virginia, perhaps the greatest dreadnaught afloat, in the midst of the disarmament conference, may have been planned as his masterstroke. Whether disarmament is "to be, or not to be, that is the question".

The Last Battleship?

CHRISTENING the "West Virginia" as she was launched at Newport News Saturday. Alice Mann prayed that it might be the last battleship ever built. Was ever a Leviathan of war sent into the deep with a sentiment so foreign to its purpose? How different from the boastful spirit in which we have been wont to let loose our fighting ships! The difference was not in Alice Mann. It was in the country, in the world peoples. We've spent some fifteen millions upon the West Virginia. It is to date our greatest fighting machine. The dispatch which recorded the launching closed with the observation that "should the Hughes disarmament proposals be accepted, the West Virginia will be towed out to sea and sunk". Agreements are one of two things—covenants in good faith, or scraps of paper. When the disarmament agreement is reached the world will be impressed. But when civilization sees great ships of war, just off the ways after millions of expense, deliberately sunk by the nations that own them, will they not indeed believe that war, the junk-maker, has been junked!

Lazy Man's Load?

THE fat man is the target for many jokes, which frequently hinge around his supposed aversion to exerting himself physically. But you never saw a fat man tramp. The fat man is a lover of ease. He likes the good things of life, and usually is willing to work hard to gratify his desires. Hence, says Mrs. Ethel Spaulding Slater, Baltimore vocational expert, the fat man's love of ease gravitates him to the swivel chair. He makes a good executive and is a natural politician. This is a good sales argument for fat men, out of jobs—if there are any.

Shortage

SHEEP in America decreased from 52,500,000 head in 1910 to 35,000,000 head in 1920. The senate hears this, through its tariff committee, from the National Sheep and Wool Bureau of America. Decrease in sheep raising has been largely due to falling off in consumption of virgin wool. Wool, chewed up and used over and over as shoddy, will be a booming on clothing manufacturers later, in the form of a shortage of virgin wool.

Armour

WILL the steel industry suffer when battleship building is curtailed? Not much. Bethlehem Steel company is the leading American producer of steel war materials, but its investment in munition plants is less than five percent of its total properly investment. In normal times, less than one percent of total American steel production goes for armaments. That is not much to lose. It would be more than made up by increased peace time demand for steel in a world rendered more productive by a lessening of its war-preparedness burden.

Sealskin

THE great herd of 2,500,000 seals in the northern Pacific was reduced to less than 125,000 by indiscriminate slaughter. Result: Women probably are paying as much for Hudson seal-dyed muskrat—as they would be paying for genuine sealskin if the seal herds had been protected. Fortunately, government protection of seals now is rigid, and the herd has increased to 600,000. Man is reckless of anything he finds in great quantities. Few of us look into the future, guarding against shortage.

Money

POSTAL savings banks now have deposits of about $150,000,000. Other banks have deposits eighty-five times as big. Many bankers opposed postal savings banks when they were started. Time has proved that the postal banks champions were right in their contention that postal banks would attract chiefly money otherwise hidden behind the clock, instead of cutting into deposits in privately-run banks.

Women

ABOUT 12,000,000 women are on payrolls in United States, says a government report. That means, one out of four workers are women and girls. Woman is becoming financially independent, but the home is not in any great danger. Dan Cupid attends to that. Typewriters, bookkeeping, cash registers and factory benches lose their lure when nature calls for more babies.

Gone

THE crowned head passes as Germany's symbol. New postage stamps, printed in Berlin, bear images of farmer, miner and blacksmith, instead of an imperialistic design. This shows a strengthening of the democratic sentiment in Germany. In the long run, that is more important to the world than payment of indemnity.

TEN YEARS AGO TODAY
A cut in the appropriation for park purposes this year has stopped all work on levee park and it will not be completed next year as planned. Only $10,000 was set aside in this year's budget for park purposes and it takes at least $8,000 a year to maintain the city parks. The remainder is not enough to even continue the work on levee park. It may be four years before the river front will present the beauty spot planned.
Although the Greek Orthodox society of Syrian colony on the north side has given up hope of completing its new church by Christmas, it is practically certain the new edifice will be in use by the end of the winter. The foundations have been completed and the frame work will be started within a few weeks. Dan Sady, leader of the Syrians, announced this morning that the money appropriated for building the church was holding out well and that the building will be completed without a hitch.

Mining for wood, which may be carried on with profit in La Crosse at some future date, when the woods of the north are gone, was forecasted yesterday by a man digging with a pick and shovel for slabs on the island between West and North La Crosse. A large territory in and near this island is composed of land filled with slabs and edgings covered with sawdust and cull shingles. The sawdust preserves the slabs and since the property is unoccupied there is a good profit made by digging out the wood and selling it for fuel.

Double Trouble

BY R. RAY BAKER

When at home in a big Ohio city Kearns & Kearns dealt in hardware. In the northern resort where they were spending the summer, however, they suddenly found themselves dealing in love.

Nice looking young men were Alfred and Charlie Kearns, but never had they been sufficiently lured by feminine charms to plunge into the sea of matrimony. They were confirmed bachelors, they thought, with minds for nothing but business. When at home Kearns & Kearns took pains to dress decidedly different, because they were twins who looked almost exactly alike, even when side by side, and they were anxious to avoid complication in their dealing with patrons.
By some stroke of good fortune, a man came to work for the firm who was exceptionally reliable and progressive, and the twins decided they would go on a frolic and leave him in charge. During their five years of business and one vacation had they attempted, and they thought it was high time they tasted of a little recreation. So they went together to the northern resort.

Out for a lark they saw opportunities for fun in their looking alike, so they dressed exactly the same in summer duds.
The trouble all started one afternoon while Alfred was walking along the lake shore in quest of oddities in beach stones. A young woman, engaged in the same pastime, almost bumped into him, because both their heads were down as they searched the shore line, and they struck up an acquaintance. She was a pretty girl, who was summing up with an aunt in a lake shore cottage, and she had some fascinating ways about her. Alfred escorted her home and learned her name was May Winters. He arranged to see her again a few nights hence.

The very next afternoon May resumed her hunt for beach stones, and it so happened that Charles Kearns was out for a stroll in the same locality. She called to him and naturally he responded and hurried to her side, although he wondered at her action. The ensuing conversation served as an explanation, and Charles did not say he was not Alfred. The brothers were out for a lark so why miss this opportunity.

Charles told Alfred of the incident and they agreed to continue the deception for a short time. It was not quite right, of course, but no doubt May Winters was a summer flirt and it would do no harm to teach her a lesson.

But, alas, for the success of the lark, Kearns & Kearns fell in love and the trouble began. Alternately they called upon her and took her dancing and to dances, and by agreement the one who was not so engaged kept to his room in order to avoid complications.

Now while Alfred and Charles were alike in appearance they were different in dispositions. Charles was conceited, while his brother was inclined to modesty and backwardness. Charles prided himself as being the more progressive and admitted the success of the hardware business was due to his efforts. Alfred was more of a figurehead, according to Charles' ideas.

Being the more progressive in business, Charles felt he should have the right of way in love. So one evening he summoned Alfred to a consultation.

"This thing has got to stop," said Charles firmly, as they sat on the edge of their bed. "I'm in love with Miss Winters and have decided to marry her. You must stay away from her and leave a clear track for me."

"That would be all right," admitted Alfred, with a tinge of sarcasm. "Only it happens I'm just about as much in love with Miss Winters as you are; in fact, probably more so. I've decided to make her Mrs. Alfred Kearns."

Their future discussion resulted in the exchange of some rather angry words, and things went on as before.

Three days later, Charles, in desperation, convened another conference.

"There's only one way to settle it," he declared. "And that's to fight a duel. However, I have no desire to kill or be killed, so I suggest we bowl to see which one of us drops out of the race. The winner will be given a clear track."

At first, Alfred demurred. It was not right, he argued, to play a game for a lady's affections. On the other hand Charles pointed out that it was not quite the correct thing to continue the deception.

"We've got to settle it some way," he said. "Well bowl, and the winner will propose to Miss Winters the next time he sees her. Of course, if she refuses him the loser can camp on her trail as much as he pleases. I don't mind telling you, though, that she favors me. She's given me a lot of encouragement. You know our personalities are different, and when she's with me, no doubt, she feels different than when with you. Yes, the only way to settle is to bowl."

Both Alfred and Charles were ten pin enthusiasts, but secretly for the last several days the latter had been practicing, having in mind the idea he had just offered to his twin.

Alfred went into the game with a prayer on his lips, but he was beaten. Charles "struck out," while Alfred made only nine pins in the tenth frame. The tenth pin wobbled, but did not fall and Charles was winner by seven pins.

"It was fate," Alfred told himself gloomily, as he retired that night. The other side of the bed was unoccupied, because Charles was calling on May making his proposal.

Later Alfred heard his twin come in but he feigned snoring. He had no relish for listening to triumphant remarks by the victor. He dreaded to observe a smile of exultation play about his brother's face, so he kept his eyes closed.
In the morning came a surprise. Charles' countenance bore no smiles. Instead, he scowled.
"I failed," growled Charles, as he climbed warily out of bed. "She re-

DICK MISSES THE GAME
"I wouldn't miss that game this afternoon for anything," Dick said as he fingered his ticket.
It was the morning of the most important game between Rosewood and Jonesville. High two little rivals. Dick was a Rosewood rooter.
He went whistling down the road toward town.
Suddenly he was seized from behind. Three boys had jumped out from the brush at the side of the road.
"Come along and don't make a fuss," growled one of the boys, an especially big and husky fellow. Half shoving and pulling Dick, the group came to a fork in the road. There stood a car into which they pushed their captive.
As soon as he got his breath, Dick demanded what was meant. "What do we mean of the boys?" one of his captors laughed. "Why we mean this. Last year Rosewood thought it was great sport to kidnap one of our players. Well, we're returning the favor."
Then Dick understood. Holbrook was one of the players on the Rosewood eleven. Dick had often been told he looked like Holbrook.
His first thought was to prove he wasn't Holbrook. Then he considered. If he did that, they were likely to jump him out and get the real Holbrook. That might mean that Rosewood would lose the game. Dick sighed. How he hated to miss that game—still—
At five-thirty Dick's captors returned to the deserted house where they had carefully locked him in. They unfastened his hands gloomily.
"Well, given home, who ever you are," said the largest one. "You can walk it, too. I guess you feel pretty smart!"
Dick didn't need to ask them who had won.

EASY JUGGLING LESSON 1
These, one of the most widely known of professional jugglers, has prepared a series of ten lessons in easy juggling especially for the readers of this newspaper. This is the first. Another one next week.
The Single Vertical Throw
At the age of nine I had decided to become a juggler. Unfortunately, I chose our kitchen as the most desirable place in which to master the art. It was but a few minutes after starting the first practice that a stray juggling ball crashed into my mother's china set.
The next practice was held in our barn, far from anything breakable.
The first step I made was a beginning juggler was to acquire skill in the "single vertical throw," done with one ball. It is a simple stunt, lacking the spectacular, but one that must be mastered.
At a variety store you can purchase for about ten cents a hard rubber ball, an inch and a half or two inches in diameter, similar to the ball used by professional jugglers. While you are about it, buy two more of these balls, to be used later on.
Grasp one ball loosely in one hand, holding it with the fingers near the top of the palm. Figure 1 illustrates the hold. Then toss the ball easily, allowing it to roll out of your hand over the fingers, which guide the ball in a straight upward path. Figure 2 shows the proper position of the hand as the ball leaves.
Catch the ball in the same hand. Do not catch it with a loud smack in the flat palm, for the ball may bounce out. Allow it to tip the fingers first, and roll easily into the palm. The fingers naturally close over it and hold it there. Figure 3 also shows how the hand should be held when catching the ball.
At first do not throw the ball high. About a twelve-inch toss is a good starter.
Practice the toss with both right and

Our National Bird

BY DR. WILLIAM E. BARTON
Our national emblem is the bald-headed eagle. The American eagle is a noble bird, a proud, beautiful, mighty, king of birds as the lion is king of beasts. He comes with a marvelous grace and power; and when he swoops upon his prey, he is terrible.
But American is not the only country that claims the eagle as its own. Russia and Prussia insist that the eagle is theirs. There are not enough noble birds and beasts for the nations (but are and have been and are to be).
The eagle adopted as his national emblem many centuries ago. That does not give Rome any permanent right to our bird; and the eagle is as much as it ever was Rome's. But we have one bird that is our very own, and that is the turkey. That bird grew all over America wherever the Indian corn was cultivated, and that was all the way from New England to Mexico and even farther.
When Cortez in 1519 first reached the realm of the Aztecs, he was feasted by Montezuma with royal splendor, and the menu was roast turkey. The Aztecs had already domesticated the fowl. It was plentiful also in its wild state there and north of the Rio Grande.
The turkey was taken by the Spaniards first to Spain and then to other Mediterranean countries, and thence to the eastern nations of Europe and the north as well. On June 27, 1576, when Charles IX of France married Elizabeth of Austria, a turkey imported from the wilds of America graced the feast.
The Pilgrims of Plymouth had turkeys on the first Thanksgiving day. England made the Christmas goose national and notable; but America has made the turkey international and permanently famous.
If we must divide the eagle with Rome and other nations, we have an indefensible right to the turkey. It will not displace the eagle as an emblem, but it is vastly better than the eagle which served on the Thanksgiving platter.

But Alfred could not remain away from the beach where he had met May, and as he half suspected, she was there. She sat on a boulder about which the tiny waves played and she appeared in a pensive mood, gazing moodily off at the faint line where the water and sky came together.
Alfred did not seek her society. He had merely wanted a glimpse of May and now he tried to beat a retreat without her seeing him.
He advanced slowly, nervously. Never had she looked more beautiful or more desirable. But she was lost to him forever, he felt. She had in effect rejected his proposal, though he had never made one.
"Come and sit beside me," she invited, moving over on the boulder. By means of a long step he gained her side without landing in the water. "Don't they entrance you—those far distances?" she asked. "See that wide expanse of blue; and there's a tiny ship close to the horizon."
They engaged in desultory conversation for perhaps half an hour. Then suddenly May turned on him with wide eyes gleaming blue like the sea and the sky.
"I have something to say to you," she told him, gripping his arm. "I have changed my mind. You seem so different today. At times I have loved you—lots. And at other times I have almost despised you. Your disposition seems so different at different times. Last night you were your dearest self and today you—well, if I felt that you could always be as you are today, I would gladly marry you. Don't you think you could always be as you are today?"
Alfred seized her hands. "I can, I can," he assured her eagerly. "And I will, you can depend on it. Some day I'll explain why I've landed to Mexico and even farther. When Cortez in 1519 first reached the realm of the Aztecs, he was feasted by Montezuma with royal splendor, and the menu was roast turkey. The Aztecs had already domesticated the fowl. It was plentiful also in its wild state there and north of the Rio Grande.

NAVAL EXPERTS OF THREE POWERS DISCUSS DETAILS OF DISARMAMENT PROGRAM

British and Japanese of Opinion that U. S. Would Come to End of Navy Holiday in Better Shape Than Others

WASHINGTON, D. C.—By The Associated Press.—Naval experts of the three major powers were reviewing Tuesday the highly technical questions arising in connection with the American proposals for immediate reduction of the fleets and a ten-year naval building holiday. The British and Japanese officers appear to have found some details of the plan which will require treatment before there is final acceptance.

For one thing, the British have pointed out the effect on the fleets the American program would have if the full measure of Secretary Hughes' plan were carried into execution. The plan proposes absolute cessation of building for ten years; the fixing of the life of a battleship at twenty years, replacement building to begin seventeen years after the ship to be replaced was completed, this allowing three years for construction of the new ship.

The twenty-year life rule alone is a novel one for other navies. Japan now uses eight years as the life of capital ships, beginning replacement within that period after a vessel is constructed. She has not as yet worked out this eight-year cycle, however, expecting with her present building program to attain it in 1928. Great Britain has no replacement schedule at present. For two years prior to the war, she laid down five new battleships a year and for years previously four a year. This program is what maintained her "two-power standard," now abandoned. It did not contemplate a twenty-year active life for the ships.

Applying the proposed American replacement rule to the ships to be retained by each power under the same plan Great Britain would have in 1931, at the end of the ten-year naval holiday when she might begin replacement building, four battleships that dated twenty-two years to the time their keels were laid, four going back twenty-one years, and four twenty years. Her newest battleships, the Royal Sovereign group of five, were laid down in 1911 and completed in 1916 under war pressure. They would be fifteen years from date of completion and two years from the beginning of replacement vessels when the holiday ended.

One of the four British battle cruisers to be retained, the Tiger, would be ready for replacement in 1931. The other three, the Hood, Renown and Repulse, were built and designed for action in the North sea.

Applying the twenty-year life rule to the ships American proposes to keep, eight of the eighteen would be twenty years or more from the date their keels were laid in 1931.

In the Japanese retained fleet, the oldest Japanese battleship, the Settsu, laid down in 1911, would have but three years of active life left when the holiday ended. Four other battleships, the Fuso, Yamashiro, Ise and Hizen, would have from four to five years to go before they were scrapped as worn out and replaced. The Nagato alone would have a decade or more of serviceable life left and the four battle cruisers, the Kirishima, Haruna, Hiei, Yoi and Kongo, also would have only four or five years before they would be dropped from the lists and replaced.

Viewed in this way there is some reason to believe that both the British and Japanese experts think the United States would come to the end of the holiday in far better shape than either of the other two powers. That appears to be the basis of the discussions now proceeding and perhaps of the Japanese desire to retain some of the newer ships scheduled for the scrap heap by the American plan, rather than destroy them.

The situation apparently would weigh more heavily on Japan than on Great Britain because under the 5-5-3 ratio of Secretary Hughes' plan, already accepted by the British, the British would have to provide for a twenty percent reduction of their fleet by 1931 when the ratio would apply while Japan must get to work promptly on new ships if she was to maintain even the proposed 5-5-3 ratio.

It seems possible that Secretary Hughes contemplated a still greater reduction in tonnage than the 500,000-500,000-300,000 capital ships aggregates laid down in his replacement plan. He was stating the case for the United States with the possibility of an agreement on far eastern and Pacific questions in the background and he used this language:

"With the acceptance of this plan the burden of meeting the demands of competition in naval armament will be lifted. Enormous sums will be released to aid in the progress of civilization. At the same time the proper demands of national defense will be adequately met and the nations will have ample opportunity during the naval holiday of ten years to consider their future course."

There seems little reason to doubt that the American replacement program to apply after the holiday is largely tentative except in the 5-5-3 ratio principle. It was expected by the American delegates without question that a ten-year test of the practical results of other agreements reached as to the far east would pave the way for still further naval reductions at the end of that time.

Florida Grapefruit and Oranges

Now available to your dealer—he will secure them for you if you insist.

During the long summer and fall, fresh fruits generally have been scarce and in most places high-priced.

No other fruits are so rich in constituents helpful to health as grapefruit and oranges. They rank high in calories, the fuel units of food, and in vitamins, the elements of food essential to the preservation of life.

Sealdsweet grapefruit and oranges are the dependable kind, uniformly containing plenty of juice, in which are found the food and health values of citrus fruits. Sealdsweet means inner goodness—the grapefruit and oranges marketed under this trade-name are good to eat and fine for the system, whether bright, golden or russet in outer color. STATE TO OPEN ATTACK TUESDAY ON FILLED MILK

Dietetic Expert First Witness for State in Hearing at Madison

MADISON, Wis.—The state expects to open its attack on filled milk Tuesday at the hearing before Judge A. G. Zimmerman, referee appointed by the state supreme court to determine facts in the case of milk companies against the Wisconsin law prohibiting manufacture and sale of milk compounds.

Dr. E. V. McCullen, dietetic expert of Johns Hopkins university and formerly of the University of Wisconsin, will be the first state witness. He will testify concerning the effect in growing persons of a diet made up without whole milk, dealing especially with the need for fat soluble vitamins for proper growth.

The past five days have been devoted to testimony of milk company experts who have maintained that filled milk made from skimmed milk and cream is as fully as nutritious as whole milk.

The supreme court will have its decision largely on findings of fact by the referee, and on its decision will depend the fate of the filled milk legislation which was passed almost unanimously by the last legislature.

The leaves, instead of being used for an infused beverage, as in other countries, are steamed, tied into bundles, and buried in the ground for fifteen days, after which the product will keep for two years or more.

Investigate Intra-State Rates on Coal; also Rates on Brick and Pulp Wood

MADISON, Wis.—With three of the largest hearings in a single week in the history of the state the week before Christmas is going to be a busy one for the state railroad commission. On December 19 a large attendance is expected at a hearing to investigate intra-state freight rates on coal and coke following the suggestion of Governor John J. Blaine some three weeks ago. This hearing will be held at Madison.

On December 21 the commission at Madison will investigate the rates on pulp wood following the complaint by the Wisconsin Lumber Association. Rates on brick will be investigated upon the request of the Wisconsin Clay Manufacturers' Association on December 22, and December 23 will see the investigation of telegraph rates between numerous points in the states served by the Western Union, Postal Union and the Railway Telegraph of America.

SIMPLE WAY TO GET RID OF BLACKHEADS

There is one simple, safe and sure way that never fails to get rid of blackheads and that is to dissolve them.

To do this get two ounces of calomel powder from any drug store—sprinkle a little on a hot wet sponge—rub over the blackheads briskly—wash the parts and you will be surprised how the blackheads have disappeared. Big blackheads, little blackheads, no matter where they are, simply dissolve and disappear, leaving the parts without any mark whatever. Blackheads are simply a mixture of dust and dirt and secretions from the body that form in the pores of the skin. Pinching and squeezing only cause irritation, make large pores and do not get them out after they become hard. The calomel powder and the water simply dissolve the blackheads so they wash right out, leaving the pores free and clean and in their natural condition. Anyone troubled with these unsightly blemishes should certainly try this simple method.

America's Oldest Astronomical Observatory

The oldest astronomical observatory in the United States is that which was erected at Williams college in 1808. In 1831 Professor Albert Hopkins sailed for Europe to obtain the necessary astronomical instruments, and when he returned in 1834 he and some of his students quarried the rock from which this primitive observatory was built. It was dedicated on June 12, 1838, and was of course named the "Hopkins Astronomical Observatory." It may well be called the pioneer observatory of America, although there was a small astronomical observatory constructed by the University of North Carolina, in 1826.

Take ARCOLA as a Gift—from your Heating Engineer

We mean it—a gift.

Your Heating Engineer will tell you that three average winters will pay back its cost to you in the fuel it saves.

And think of the satisfaction of having every room warmed by its own American Radiator—the same kind of radiators that warm the White House itself.

Think of the joy of having all the hot water you want for washing or bathing, for ARCOLA can heat the kitchen tank, too, without subtracting from the warmth of the house.

Surely all this comfort is worth the little trouble of telephoning your Heating Engineer. He will gladly call and make an estimate. You will be surprised to learn how little ARCOLA costs and how quickly it can be installed.

Don't go through another winter bathing and dressing and eating in chilly rooms. Take a little comfort out of life—especially comfort that pays its own way. Take ARCOLA from your Heating Engineer—take it as his gift.

The red and yellow card at the right is the sign of a Heating or Sanitary Engineer (you used to call him Steamfitter or Plumber) who can show you ARCOLA. Look for it in his window.

It will pay you to consult him twice a year as you do your Doctor or Dentist. His report on your heating and plumbing costs little. It may save much.

BADGERS MISS SERVICES OF ALLEN DAVEY AS DROP KICKER IN CHICAGO GAME

Wisconsin Putting Forth Five Candidates for Mythical Elevens to be Chosen Within a Short Time

BY BOB DUNN

The Wisconsin football eleven missed the services of Allen Davey, drop kicker, in the great game on the Midway on Saturday, lost to Chicago by the score of 3 to 0, the same score by which the Maroons suffered defeat at the hands of the Badgers last year, thanks to the efforts of Davey.

Two years ago it was Davey who grabbed a pass in the last few minutes of play and sprouted half the length of the field for a touchdown, Wisconsin winning, 10 to 3. Last year Davey booted the winning drop kick.

Badgers Miss Davey

If Wisconsin had had a drop kicker of the same caliber on Saturday, a duplication of the feat would have been possible for three times the Badger advanced the ball within scoring distance only to lose it when further advances were impossible. Williams' fumble on the eight-yard line at the opening was disastrous.

And Sam's poor play, kick again, made Wisconsin's chances look slim. This year it was Chicago that had the kicker. Romney, defender of Princeton, also proved to be the flux for the Badgers. One place kick had been unsuccessful but Wisconsin was penalized on the play and the second attempt was good for a score and a win.

The unexpected victory of Illinois over Ohio State, the only win by the Big Ten this year, was the big surprise of the week and definitely brands the Illinois season a success in spite of all the other reverses suffered by Zuppke's recruits. For the past two years Ohio State has won from Illinois by one point in each game. The win on Saturday, which definitely eliminated the Staters in the race for the championship, was sweet revenge for the Illini.

Iowa Clear Champs

This victory gives Coach Jones a clear claim to the Big Ten championship, with Ohio State ranking second, Chicago third, Wisconsin fourth and Michigan fifth, according to the table of conference percentages.

Following the game at Chicago, Eddie Williams, Badger backfield star, was elected captain of the squad for next fall. Williams, an Elmhurst boy, has played two years of varsity football so next season will be his last. He won his emblem in three sports last year and is looked upon to repeat this year. He is as spectacular on the basketball floor as he is on the gridiron and is far from a mediocre player on the baseball diamond.

With the season at hand for the selection of all-star elevens over the country, Wisconsin is putting forward at least five candidates who will make strong bids for places on teams put forth as the best in the Big Ten conference.

The men looked upon as the strongest men on the Badger eleven and some of them as the strongest in the conference, are Eddie Williams, George Lunge, James Brader, Guy Sandt and Alvin Elliott. Of these candidates, three are members of Wisconsin's spectacular backfield and the other two are linemen.

Brader's leadership at center in the Big Ten this year will probably be disputed by Vick of Michigan, who played an unusually strong game against the Badger star a few weeks ago. Eddie Williams stands the best chance of the Badger stars for an all-conference selection, although it is agreed that Williams' true worth is appreciated off the campus. Williams may stand some chance of being rated as an all-American selection.

Elliott is looked upon favorably by some Midway dopsters although on the campus, he is not considered to be as strong as an all-around player as is his teammate.

Sandt is punter

Sandt is another strong candidate although he cannot compare with Locke, Thomas or Tinnin as a line punter. On the defense, however, he stacks up well with these men and with Crangle of Illinois, who, however, did not put up the strong brand of ball this year, that he did last season. On the other hand, Sandt is looked upon as one of the best punters in the conference.

James Brader, tackle this year, guard last and during his first season of conference ball, should be rated with the best. Slater of Iowa, and McGuire of Chicago, and Huffman of Ohio, however, are tackles of the first water. It is generally considered that Aubrey Payne, quarter of Iowa, and Locke, Iowa fullback, together with Slater, colored Iowa tackle, and Keiding, end on the same team, all stand good chances of making all-conference teams.

LEONARD TO FIGHT FRIEDMAN IN EIGHT ROUND BOUT TODAY

PHILADELPHIA, Pa.—After more than five months' absence from the ring, Benny Leonard, world's lightweight champion, will meet Sailor Friedman of Chicago, in an eight round bout here Tuesday. Because the men will fight at catch-weights there is some question as to whether Leonard's title will be at stake.

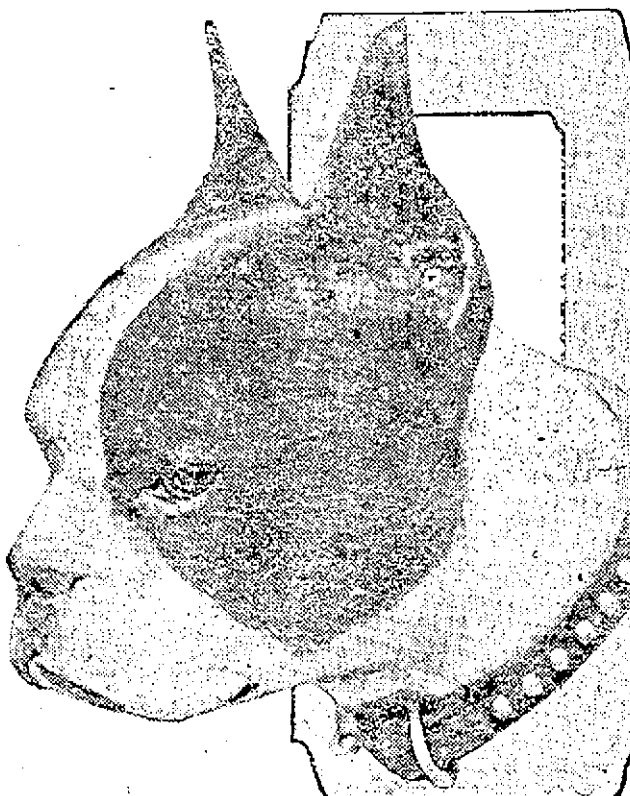

Leonard has not been in action since he outpointed Rocky Kansas early last June.

ROCKY-JOHNNY TO BATTLE 10 ROUNDS AT MILWAUKEE CLUB

MILWAUKEE, Wis.—Rocky Kansas of Buffalo and Johnny Mendelssohn, local lightweight boxer, are prepared to battle ten rounds before a local club Tuesday night. Articles of agreement call for not more than 125 pounds at weighing-in time this afternoon. The boys are reported in fine condition for the contest for which there has been a large advance sale.

These days, it is hard to laugh at your own expense.

HE'S GOT A PERFECT HEAD

"BILLY" TODD

DENVER.—"Billy Todd" of Denver is one of thousands of other Boston terriers. Yet he's different from most of his brothers and sisters. He owns a perfectly marked head.

Both eastern and western judges have scored him. They found his head without a flaw. During the past year several eastern kennelmen have made the trip to Denver to study this wonderful-headed dog. Maurice Greenwood of Boston recently passed judgment on "Billy Todd's" head. He has judged Bostonians for years in eastern show rings.

"I have never seen a Boston terrier quite so perfectly marked as 'Billy Todd' is about the head," says Greenwood.

"Here are the points, which in my opinion, make the perfect-headed dog: Ears—standing straight and even with the sides of jaws. Skull—broad flat, boxlike. Eyes—large, round, dark, set wide apart and not showing any white. Jaws—square, like the halves of a square box. Muzzle—short, broad, deep, free from wrinkles. Face—marked with an even blaze of white on forehead and across muzzle band with background of brindle.

Characteristics are intelligence, alertness, intense affection for friends and the absence of viciousness. Perfect headed specimens are very rare. But "Billy Todd" is one of them.

MOORE IS NO MORE AMATEUR ATHLETE RULING NOW HELD

NEW YORK.—Joe Moore, international speed skating champion, was no longer an amateur athlete Tuesday as a result of a ruling of the Middle Atlantic Skating association, which refused to allow him to compete in a skating carnival here Monday night.

The association charges Moore violated the rule that forbids the use of amateur athletes' names for advertising purposes. Moore claims his name was used without his knowledge, and that he is not guilty of violation of the rule.

GERMS IN CHINESE EGGS

PARIS.—Twenty-four hours after they had thawed a shipment of frozen eggs from China, local health authorities say they found the eggs contained 23,000 harmful microbes. The officials advised against their use, except for biscuit making.

After a thorough search of the field, authorities at the local school were unable to locate a substitute team which would furnish an attraction equal to that of Marinette. Negotiations for another game were not opened.

LA CROSSE OUTDOOR SPORTS ASSOCIATION TO CAMPAIGN FOR FUNDS NEXT SATURDAY

Winter has come and from all indications is here to stay.

The La Crosse Outdoor Sports association, as sponsor of every form of outdoor activity more especially through the winter months, is taking over the responsibility of keeping up the Pettibone lagoon skating rink. The unusual fitness of Pettibone lagoon as a rendezvous for skating, ice hockey, curling and in fact every imaginable sport where a large rink is necessary, needs no introduction to La Crosse people. During the winter carnival last year and remainder of the season, the lagoon was the most popular spot in the city for skaters.

The association faces but one obstacle in its program of maintaining the lagoon in tip-top shape with every possible convenience for those who wish to frequent the place during the coming winter. It must have funds.

With hearty support of the city, the association proposes to maintain lights at the lagoon, keep the ice in good condition for hockey and curling as well as promote the organization of teams for competition for these sports, equip a large warming shanty with check room and "bar" where hot coffee and doughnuts will be sold. In addition, as an added special feature, the organization plans to provide music on Sunday afternoon and on special occasions.

A benefit tag day and membership drive will be conducted by the board of directors of the association next Saturday. The membership fee is fifty cents and the holder of a receipt becomes an active member of the organization and is entitled to all privileges as such.

Remember Saturday as benefit day for the La Crosse Outdoor Sports association. Do your little bit in the promotion of outdoor sports in La Crosse by buying a tag and becoming a member of the organization.

BODEGA CLUB WINS FROM ROTH'S, 75-33

This evening the Bodega club plays at Roth's and Safford plays at Wittenberg.

BASKETBALL SEASON OPENS AT LA CROSSE NORMAL ON MONDAY

Four of Last Year's Team Members Report in Call for Material

Basketball season opened up for the La Crosse Normal yesterday when over 25 men answered Coach Keeler's call for candidates. After a talk on the prospects of the year and the essentials of a basketball man, "Tubby" had his men go through preliminary practice in order to get an idea of what he had to work with this year.

Of the men that turned out, four were last year's veterans around whom this year's squad will be formed. The last year's men are Captain Reay Jennings, Eitzinger and Reynolds. Men to take the places of "Swede" Dahlgren and Russ Blipie must be gotten from the other candidates who are largely new men coming from high schools. Quite a little competition is expected among the new men who have high school experience.

Shorty Bess, St. Paul, is reputed to be of college caliber and great things are expected of him this year at the local school.

URBANA, Ill.—Don Peden, left halfback, was elected captain for 1922 of the University of Illinois football team.

BLOOMINGTON, Ind.—Frank Hanny of Aurora, Ill., right end, was elected captain of the 1922 Indiana university football team.

BAND ENTERTAINS STUDENT ASSEMBLY

Speeches Given by Leaders in High School Athletics

The students of the La Crosse High School were entertained by the Normal School Band and by very effective talks by leaders of the school Athletic Association, in general assembly Thursday morning in the High School Auditorium.

After some announcements by Mr. Wiley, Mr. Keegan, the new coach, delivered a very effective speech on the relation of the students to the football team. He said, "This is your team; your team to aid, support and finance."

"On Wisconsin" called everyone to his feet as the Normal Band made its way to the stage. This was the "surprise" of the occasion and the students very much appreciated the two concert numbers which the band gave.

Following these selections, Mr. Kling gave a short talk justifying Mr. Keegan's words. Mr. Hanson, assistant coach, spoke of the merits of the second team. Rain, sun or snow, the boys come out to practice when they know there is small chance of their making the team. Mr. Hanson concluded with, "Football is not fun, not all honor, not all glory, but ninety nine per cent hard work."

"We want the team! We want the team!" could be heard over the assembly and after much hesitation and considerable persuasion by Coach Keegan and yell leader, John Guertin, Dunham, Holley, Tobias, Lisovoe, Buteman and Abraham gave short talks. They were accompanied by much cheering and enthusiasm on the part of the listeners, and a great deal of embarrassment on the part of the speakers.

The assembly closed with another selection by the Normal Band.

BENEFIT OPERETTA TONIGHT

"The Feast of the Red Corn" an Operetta presented by the Girl's Glee Club will be given in the Auditorium this evening.

The operetta portrays a realistic episode in the life of the American Indian. It is the custom of the Wanda tribe to journey in the autumn to a glen near their camp, and to hold a feast there. The purpose of the feast is to try and find a red ear of corn. The maiden who finds it will be granted her dearest wish. The Queen Weenda Wanta also attends the feast in hope of learning something of the whereabouts of her husband, the King. The adventures of her sister Impee Light, and the Queen's children, Fudgee, Pudgee, and Wudgee are interesting features of the play. James A. Smoke, an Indian, of Tomah Wisconsin, has consented to play the part of the King.

The cast is as follows:
Queen Weenda Wanta Dorothy Frizzell
The King James A. Smoke
Impee Light Marion Rolze
Old Squaw Dorothy Fox
Pudgee Marcelle Bartz
Fudgee Lillian Hoyer
Wudgee Louise Zeile
Chorus Girls' Glee Club
The proceeds of the operetta will be given over to charities for distribution on Thanksgiving Day.

SCHOOL GOSSIP

The Advanced Seniors had their first meeting this year on Wednesday. Toni Maloney was the chairman and class-plans were discussed. It was decided to have the students submit designs for a standard classpin which may be used each year by every class. The letters L. C. must be on and a space for the year. The winner will receive a pin as a prize.

The Palstaff Dramatic Society is preparing three plays to be put on before the school some time in the near future. They are "Gassed," a comedy "Zone Police" and "Which is Which."

The cast for "Gassed" is as follows:
Dudley Elliot, a senior—John Guertin.
Lady Clayton, a senior—Irwin Wit.
Biscuits, a junior—Julius Roth.
Gas Collins, a freshman—August Grams.

Puck Evans, a junior—Dall Jorris.
The cast for "Zone Police" is as follows:

Mayor Aintree, a U. S. A. Lieutenant in the Canal Zone Police—George Strombeck.
Standish, a Lieutenant in the Canal Zone Police—Gordon Kerr.
Meehan, a sergeant in the Canal Zone Police—Kinneth Russell.
Bullard, a Canal Zone Police—Ernest Skaff.

The cast for "Which is Which" has not yet been announced.

THANKSGIVING

About this time of the year, each one begins to ask himself, "Well, what have I to be thankful for this year?" As students, it is sometimes very easy to lose sight of the educational opportunities that are ours in the public schools of this country. We take too much for granted, and as a consequence, we do not get out of our school work what we should.

If every day in the high school adds so many dollars to our later earning capacity, and statistics prove that so many of us are wasting money, immigrants and children of foreign born parents very often get much more education out of our public school system than native born Americans. Why? Because they realize the privileges that are before them now, no, years hence when it is too late.

Why not take an annual inventory, and ask yourself, "What have I accomplished during the past year? Did I make good use of my time? What do I wish to attain in the coming year?" And there is no better occasion for this than at Thanksgiving time.

Let us be thankful for the civilization and government that makes the public schools possible, and we can best show our thankfulness by availing ourselves diligently of the opportunities offered—now.

The second meeting of the Christmas Gift Club was held Tuesday afternoon, November 13th, at the home of Helen Bauer. All members were present, and as some had forgotten their sewing a great deal of assistance was done. At 5:30 the hostess served very delicious refreshments and the meeting broke up.

THANKSGIVING DAY GAME CALLED OFF

Local Fans Disappointed by Action of Marinette

With no valid reason Marinette has called off the game scheduled with La Crosse for Thanksgiving Day. This game was a great disappointment to La Crosse fans for although both the La Crosse and Marinette teams have suffered one defeat this year, they are without a doubt the two strongest contenders for the state title.

La Crosse has played one of the stiffest schedules any high school eleven has ever played, and have suffered but one defeat and that by a fluke. The local eleven has met the strongest teams in the state.

But although we, the students of the High School are able to say, "We might have played the championship on Thanksgiving Day," the credit is due to Coach Keegan and the boys. When he came here he had but four of last year's team round which to build his squad. He had practically all green men and out of this he shaped a team that certainly has the due credit to La Crosse High School.

They have played eight games tied and lost one. That certainly is some record for a team over half of which had never played football until this September. Certainly Coach Keegan and La Crosse High School has much reason to be proud of the team of 1921.

PLAY CHAMPIONSHIP GAMES

The Girls' Basketball team have been putting in several hours of hard practice for the last few weeks, and are now ready to compete for the class championship, which will be played next week. The games are held early in the season due to the fact that the boys start practicing shortly after Thanksgiving and the girls will not be able to use the gym then.

The games will be played on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday. The captains of the teams are: Seniors—Marie Turck; Juniors—Edith Jorris; Sophomores—Phyllis Bentley; Freshmen—Marie Appleby. The captains and the coach have been working hard to make the teams as good as possible, and the championship games are predicted to be hard ones.

The Wisconsin Interscholastic Debating League has chosen the question "Resolved that the reduction of national armaments to the status of adequate police forces within a period of ten years is practicable." (For the triangular debate which will take place on February first.)

GOLD HOLDINGS OF U. S. AT NEW HIGH RECORD IN OCTOBER

Reported at Three and Half Billion, Over 35 Percent of World's Visible Supply

NEW YORK. — Gold holdings of the United States, mounted to a new high for last month, approximating the record sum of $3,500,000,000, statisticians estimate this to be 35 percent of the world's visible supply.

This amount the 12 Federal Reserve banks hold a total of about $300,000,000, the bulk of which resides in the vaults of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York.

Gold which has been pouring into this country ever since the close of the war has averaged $75,000,000 monthly this year.

Some of the gold bears the stamp of nations born after the European (1914-1918) and some of the minted metal is almost as rare and strange to the average observer as an old time Spanish doubloon.

Part of the gold sent here by Germany to meet reparations payments to the Allies was said to be French gold (1919-1920) extracted by Germany from France as indemnity after the Franco-Prussian war in 1870.

The amount of gold bars now held by the local Assay Office is not disclosed, but the machinery of that institution has been taxed to capacity recently reducing foreign bullion to requisite fitness for the domestic market. Bars valued at many millions of dollars have been shipped from this city to the Philadelphia mint in the last few months to be made into coin.

The many national and state banks of this city, together with affiliated trust companies, the New York Clearing House and almost countless private money changers and dealers in coin and bullion probably hold at this time a total of between $1,000,000,000 and $1,250,000,000.

Cactus Responsible for the Cochineal

Among its other virtues, the cactus gives us the cochineal—the insect used for coloring. Leuwenhoek, in 1705, discovered that it was the female of an insect (Coccus Cacti), which never moved from a certain spot on the cactus, the male being the active member of the family, but useless and therefore useless. These insects are harvested three times during the dry season, being swept from the cactus into wide-mouthed bags with stiff brushes and killed in boiling water or hot steam, after which they are dried in the sun and put up in small packages for the market. In this thoroughly dried condition 70,000 insects are required to make a pound.

MEAT INJURIOUS TO THE KIDNEYS

Take a tablespoonful of Salts if Back hurts

We are a nation of meat eaters and our blood is filled with uric acid, says a well-known authority, who warns us to be constantly on guard against kidney trouble.

The kidneys do their utmost to free the blood of this irritating acid, but become weak from the overwork; they get sluggish; the eliminative process slows and thus the waste is retained in the blood to poison the entire system.

When your kidneys ache and feel like lumps of lead and you have pains in the back, when you have severe headaches, nervous and dizzy spells, sleeplessness, acid stomach or rheumatism in bad weather, get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning. This famous salt is made from the purest of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithium and has been used for generations to neutralize the acids, thus ending disorders. Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful of effervescent lithia water drink, and nobody can make a mistake by taking a little occasionally to keep the kidneys clean and active.

SHERIFF MUST MEET EXPENSES FROM HIS SALARY SAYS RULING

MADISON, Wis.—County boards cannot fix the salary of the sheriff at a stipulated sum and then allow him additional funds for expenses, E. L. Brossard, assistant attorney general, holds in an opinion Tuesday, given A. E. Murphy, district attorney of Marinette county.

"The salary when fixed by the county board necessarily includes the expenses for performance of the sheriff's duties, and they must be borne by him, and are in contemplation of the law, compensated for by the salary," he says.

PIMPLY? WELL, DON'T BE

People Notice It. Drive Them Off with Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

A pimply face will not embarrass you much longer if you get a package of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The skin should begin to clear after you have taken the tablets a few nights.

Cleanse the blood, bowels and liver with Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the successful substitute for calomel; there's no sickness or pain after taking them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do that which calomel does, and just as effectively, but their action is gentle and safe instead of severe and irritating.

No one who takes Olive Tablets is ever cursed with a "dark brown taste," a bad breath, a dull, listless, "no good" feeling, constipation, torpid liver, bad disposition or pimply face.

Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know them by their olive color.

Dr. Edwards spent years among patients afflicted with liver and bowel complaints and Olive Tablets are the immensely effective result. Take one or two nightly for a week. See how much better you feel and look. 15c and 30c.

POPE DECIDES THAT COLOSSEUM AT ROME IS A PUBLIC CHURCH

Point Raised When Police Stop Parade of Young Men from Colosseum

ROME.—The question whether the Colosseum, that ancient monument of Imperial Rome, where the Christian martyrs suffered death and men fought wild beasts to make a Roman holiday, is a public church has again been raised and decided. A proclamation, attributed by some of the Roman newspapers to the Vatican, declares that the famous building is a public church.

The point was raised recently when the Roman police prohibited the delegates to a convention of the Italian Catholic Young Men's Association from congregating in the Colosseum and holding a parade from that point to the Vatican.

The public announcement of the decision on this point recounts the history of the Colosseum from early times. It states that Pope Clement X, Clement XI, Pius V in their pontificates prohibited further decorations of the holy ground sanctified by the blood of martyrs. Benedict XIV, in 1756, declared it to be a public church.

From 1756 to 1870, masses have been sung regularly in the Colosseum, but when Victor Emmanuel II took possession of Rome in 1870 the practice was discontinued.

During the war, the custom of holding religious services in the Colosseum was again revived. After the war a requiem mass for the soldiers who died in the great war was held there.

Bran Will Free Your Entire Family from Constipation!

EIGHT MILLION PEOPLE were admitted to the hospitals of America last year. Nine-tenths of the sickness can be traced to constipation! If every man, woman and child would eat Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled, each day, nine-tenths of all sicknesses would be eliminated!

Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled, is not a "remedy." It is nature's health food. Bran acts as a sweeper, at the same time cleansing and purifying without irritation or discomfort! Results are astounding!

Physicians endorse the use of Kellogg's Bran for constipation because it corrects constipation as a food—not as a "remedy"! Your physician will tell you that the desirable way to relieve constipation is through food. We guarantee Kellogg's Bran will relieve constipation permanently if at least two tablespoonsful are eaten regularly. Chronic cases should use as much more as necessary.

When Kellogg's Bran is eaten regularly it will also clear up a pimply complexion and sweeten the breath.

And, Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled, is deliciously good! Kellogg's has an appetizing nut-like flavor, is crisp and adds zest to any food with which it is eaten. Or, it's just fine to eat as a cereal! Or sprinkle it over your favorite cereal! Kellogg's Bran is used in muffins, raisin bread, macaroons, pancakes and in a hundred other palatable ways—and all the time building health!

Start the children eating Kellogg's Bran. It will actually increase their growth and build up strong bodies.

THANKSGIVING THAT MEANS SOMETHING IS THEME OF A SERMON

Rev. C. R. Shaver Gives Interesting Address at First Presbyterian Church

"Thanksgiving That Means Something" was the somewhat unusual theme which anticipated the national festival day at First Presbyterian church Sunday morning. It was a feature of the "Thanksgiving Thought Preparation" announced by the pastor, Reverend Claude R. Shaver, and was based upon words from Isaiah 47:7, "Sing ye praises with understanding." In part, the minister said: "This sentence seems to imply that possibly there might be a form of thanksgiving which is colorless and without meaning; which is merely a 'day off,' and which can not be differentiated from any other of our several holidays. Indeed, must we not admit that with half the population of our country next Thursday will have no distinguishing features for most people believe in 'social usages' at weddings, funerals, and even at the church hall. May we not say then, that this national festival day, with its centuries of historic background, should impel us to consider how we may make it distinctive and full of meaning."

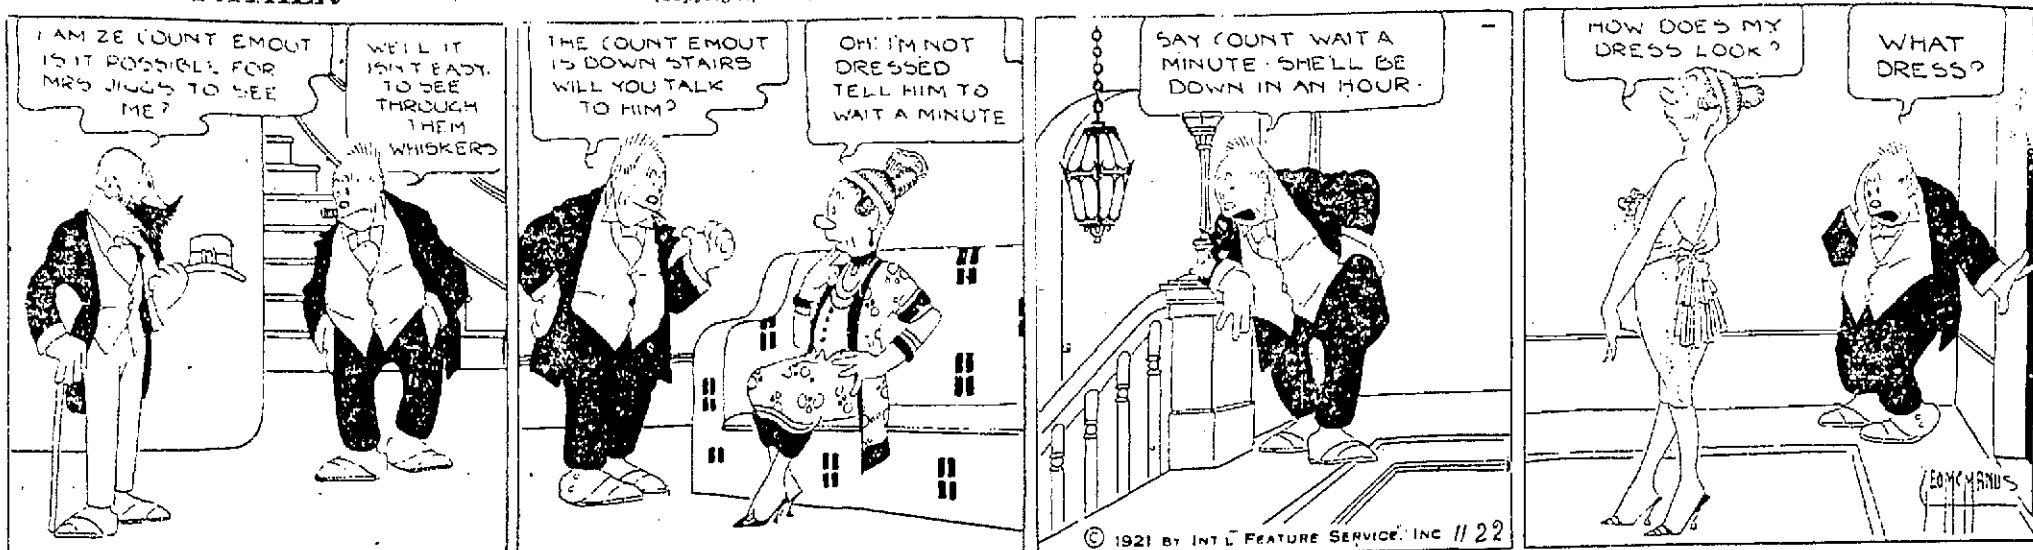

"Thought preparation is, therefore, in order. Thankfulness and thoughtfulness can not be separated. Nor can there be intelligent and gracious expression unless time is taken to analyze our experiences. The marginal reading of the text quoted emphasizes this when it translates in skillful psalm. Modern church musicians will appreciate this fine distinction when they recall that a musical effort may be technically perfect in a service of worship and yet lack much of effectiveness; if the singer has failed to think deeply into the spiritual meaning of his author's words. In this connection we find the Presidential Proclamation of this year unusually and pointedly laden with admonitions to prayer and meditation."

Day for Thanks

"As we refer again to the psalm, finding such clauses as 'God is King over all the earth,' 'He reigneth over the heathen,' etc., we may almost conclude that the author of the translation had read recently this classic of thankfulness presentation. For, we must begin with the correct understanding of sovereignty as it exists in the nature of the Creator. If we are to be intelligent in our gratitude, which sovereignty we might say by way of parenthesis, must be taken into account by the Washington conference on disarmament, if any wholesome action shall result. National leaders, which look no farther than the boundaries of their own selfish interests, either personal or racial, will not be continued long in the favor of God; or of constitutions, which recognize the authority of a Supreme and Righteous Father. Is not here the deeply unifying truth which, ultimately, must bind all nations. When we recall already that, in every country, there is an increasing group, which on next Thursday will pause in the daily rounds to render appreciative service to the Christian deity, we may feel that the day is dawning. Mr. Harding implies this, when he says, 'Our responsibility is great * * * to all mankind in God's justice.'

"But the sovereignty, which we need to take into account in our personal gratitude is that of the all-wise and impartial administration of the universe as it concerns our affairs. This, in our short-sighted conclusions, we sometimes misjudge most harshly. For example, the past year has not been as full of blessing, perhaps, to some of us, as other years have been. Shall we then say that God's goodness has been irregularly bestowed? Or shall we be honest and say that we, in our human limitations, have been careless and indifferent to some of the great over-riding principles of life and health; that we have ignored certain minor points of neighborliness and righteousness simply because no civil law hindered us."

Our Effort Necessary

The dignity of Sovereign Wisdom can not be prodigal and profuse in his benefactions. Blessings are not scattered over the earth as the oriental traveler sometimes scatters pennies before the eyes of greedy beggars. We ask for 'daily bread' in the familiar Lord's Prayer; but we do not expect it to come rolling along our street gratis. We admit that our effort is necessary. The ancient Hebrews regarded Jehovah as the God who blessed them with 'power to get wealth.' And we must concede that their energy and cleverness along this line is still a marvel; even though they have not grasped the broader national missions which their prophets and leaders proclaimed. But has not Amer been blessed with 'power to get wealth,' in even greater measure? Intelligence, but it must be responsive to the needs of others. Using again the chief executive's language, we conclude that 'we can do no less than world plans and righteous purposes hold ourselves the willing instrument revealed in the Christ's program.' of the Providence which has so wonderfully favored us. Let our prayer be open and publicly expressed, be raised for direction in right paths."

The preparation service of the evening at this church, was of the nature of a musical program in which the Festival Choir, led by Miss Stella Trane, rendered appropriate Thanksgiving anthems interspersed with familiar patriotic hymns. "Practical Thanksgiving Patriotism" was presented by the girls' club under direction of Mrs. C. C. Fletcher in a dialogue showing how Americanization is developed among the children of the southern mountains by the Church Board of Home Missions. This was a preface to the stereopticon lecture to be given by the pastor next Sunday evening on "Our Southern Mountains and Schools."

Suppose you had the settling of your neighbor's problem—

SUPPOSE it was Brown's case that was up for consideration. Brown is heading in a direction that has brought trouble to a lot of people—a direction known to be full of risks. Brown himself isn't going any too good. There are days when he hits the bumps harder than he can comfortably stand—and he shows it.

There's another road that Brown could travel safely—smooth, comfortable, pleasant, and absolutely safe.

And Brown came to you for advice. And you'd look at the facts and you'd say: "Why, Brown, there's nothing to this thing. It doesn't take any argument to decide this. Turn to the right and take the smooth, safe road, and Do It Now."

Suppose the road Brown is on is the coffee or tea road. Hundreds have had trouble on that road. Doctors have sounded the warning for the public, and raised the "no-traffic" sign for their patients—time and time again. The drugs, caffeine in coffee and their in tea, keep whipping the nerves—tending to interfere with sleep, upset digestion, produce high blood pressure, and to wear down health and efficiency by the disturbance of rest and nervous balance. Some folks go a long way on the road; some folks don't seem to notice the jolts—for a while, anyway.

But what would you say to Brown about choosing the safe road instead of the risky one?

And suppose Brown were you?

Postum users travel the sunrise road—away from the coffee and tea jolts and risks.

Postum is free from the possibility of harm for any one, and full of comfort and satisfaction for every one. Even the little children can share in the delights of a hot, mealtime cup of Postum.

No fears, either that Postum will rob the night of sleep as coffee so often does. Postum is a friendly drink for any one any time. And it's good! When you've tried Postum a few days you'll wonder why you ever thought of sacrifice in leaving off coffee or tea. Rich and flavory and satisfying, Postum suits the taste so that there's no longer any thought that you should drink it; only the thought that you want to drink it.

Postum opened the better road and the safe road for coffee and tea drinkers more than a quarter of a century ago, and a steadily increasing multitude is traveling that road—up and on to better enjoyment, better efficiency, better accomplishment.

You can buy Postum wherever good food and drink are sold and served. You can begin, now, this turn to the right road which you would so quickly recommend for Brown—by ordering Postum from your family grocer or telling your waiter at the restaurant to serve you Postum instead of coffee or tea.

Make Postum according to directions and enjoy its delicious flavor; find the change in "feeling" after a week's use of Postum. Let the family join you in the trip up the sunrise way.

You'd know what to say to Brown—say it to yourself.

MOVEMENT ON FOOT TO ORGANIZE FARM WOMEN OF NATION

Farm Bureau Federation to Work Out Plan to Affiliate
Women With the Work

ANNUAL CONVENTION TO BE HELD AT ATLANTA LATE IN MONTH

State Bureaus Asked to Send
Women Representatives

CHICAGO.—The first effort to organize farm women on a national scale, according to headquarters of the American Farm Bureau Federation, will be made at its annual convention in Atlanta Nov. 21-23. Each state farm bureau federation has been asked for the first time to send at least one representative farm woman and these will try to work out a plan for affiliating women in farm bureau work.

This program was mapped out recently in Chicago by the women's committee of the American Farm Bureau Federation.

Korean school improvement, community centers, better country churches and social cooperation are some of the things the women have in view.

"Considerable work has been done along these lines by the home bureaus," it is reported at Federation headquarters, "but the women who benefit by the home demonstration work have no means of contact with each other and there is no concentrated effort to bring about any one phase of improvement."

Mrs. Charles Schuttler of Missouri, chairman of the women's committee, has been given a prominent place on the general convention program. Mrs. Beata Brown of West Virginia, will also address the farmers.

These leaders of the farm bureau women briefly sketched are:

Mrs. Schuttler is a member of the executive committee of the Missouri Farm Bureau Federation, a member of the executive committee of the Kentucky Farm Bureau and is a young director of the American Farm Bureau Federation. She lives on a farm near Farmington, Mo.

Mrs. Brown is manager and owner of a dairy farm near Kingwood, W. Va. For the past year she has been speaking in West Virginia for the agricultural extension department, the home bureaus and the farm bureaus.

Mrs. A. E. Bridgen, of Rochester, N. Y., is president of the New York Farm Bureau Federation.

Mrs. John C. Ketchum of Michigan was for two years a member of the executive committee of the Michigan Farm Bureau Federation. She is also a member of the American Home Economics committee and of the committee of rural health and sanitation of the National Country Life Association.

Mrs. Florence E. Ward, head of the home extension division of the States Relations Service of Department of Agriculture acts in an advisory capacity to the committee.

"Camille," with Nazimova, Valentino at Riviera Sunday

"Camille," the latest Nazimova production for Metro, with Rudolph Valentino, star of "The Four Horsemen," sharing stellar honors, which comes to the Riviera next Sunday, is elaborate in the extreme, and has been in the matter of costumes and staging, brought up to date.

Special emphasis has been placed on the visual beauty of the settings and costumes. "The star herself has spared no energy or expense in gowning herself in the latest and most strikingly artistic Parisian creations. They are in themselves unusually beautiful things, and they have, moreover, been selected in every instance, to harmonize with Nazimova's personality. No less stress has been laid on the backgrounds, designed by Natacha Rambova.

June Mathis, who wrote the script for Rex Ingram's "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse," adapted "Camille." Ray C. Smallwood was director; Rudolph J. Berquist, photographer and Joseph Calder, technical director.

Lichens Make Superb Color

Some of the most striking scenes upon the earth owe their characteristic features to lichens and lichens. The famous "crimson cliffs" of Greenland which extend for miles northward from Cape York, derive their splendid color from the growth of red lichen which covers their face. The cliffs rise between 1,700 and 2,000 feet straight from the water's edge and being composed of gray granite, their aspect would be entirely different from what it is except for the presence of the lichen.

REAL "SCRAP IRON"—RIVOLI
George Blake, the boxing instructor at the Los Angeles Athletic Club, was pressed into service by Charles Ray to take the part of the referee during the fight scenes in "Scrap Iron," the first National attraction which closes today at the Rivoli. Mr. Blake acted to the manner born and was his own capable, modest self.

During one of the rests, when Charles Ray and his opponent were in their corners, the camera caught Blake mopping his brow and looking at the fighters. Studio Manager Gillmore told Blake how naturally he did this and Blake replied: "Natural? Why not? It was natural. I never worked so hard in my life. They made like two fighters who had a struggle on each other."

DOUGLAS MACLEAN—MAJESTIC
The famous race track at Tanjuna, Mexico, California, one of the few remaining turf sanctuaries in North America, is the locale of many of the thrilling racing scenes which feature "The Home Stretch." Douglas MacLean's latest comedy, which opened at the Majestic in the last night.

"The Home Stretch" is one of the most colorful and entertaining comedies in which Douglas MacLean has been seen this season. In addition, it embodies a subtle undercurrent of sentiment and a startling touch of drama and gripping suspense that elevates it to the ranks of unusual comedies.

"VIRGIN PARADISE"—LA CROSSE
The last chance to see "A Virgin Paradise," the sensational William Fox special which has scored a decided triumph at the La Crosse Theatre, will be had tonight, when the run comes to an end. The Virgin Mary story in pictures probably has occasioned more comment and created more excitement than any other photodrama ever shown here. The scenic effects, the spectacular splendor and the powerful expression of human emotion admirably achieved by the all-star cast make the picture a memorable one.

HOBART BOSWORTH—CASINO
"His Own Law" is the offering at the Casino today and is a picture that should satisfy the most critical demand of every man, woman and child who is a patron of the theater. There is comedy, there is pathos, there is power in "His Own Law," and those who have seen Hobart Bosworth on the screen, it is sufficient to say he is at his best in a part made for his exceptional talents.

ALICE LAKE—STRAND

Arthur Somers Roche wrote the story specially for Miss Lake.

SENNETT PROGRAM—RIVIERA
Where but in a Sennett comedy of large proportions could a comedy cast be assembled to equal the all-star aggregation that will be seen in "Home Talent" at the Riviera today. Ben Turpin, Charlie Murray, James Finlayson, "Doc" Farley, Eddie Gribbon, Kalla Pasha and Mildred June are some of the principal contributors to the fun, while Phyllis Haver plays a part that demands the expressiveness of legitimate art. "Home Talent" will disclose for the first time on any screen the principles of lighting and posturing that hitherto have been deemed applicable only to "still" portraiture of the highest artistic aims. Another Sennett comedy, "Youthful Fancies," is on the same program.

INFANT MORTALITY IN PHILIPPINES IS LOWEST IN 5 YEARS

General Health Conditions Last Year Declared to be Most Satisfactory

MANILA, P. I.—(By Mail).—The lowest infant mortality in Manila since the establishment of the Philippine health service is recorded by the director of health in his report for the year 1920, which has just been completed. The general mortality rate for the islands for 1920 was the lowest in five years, and the general health conditions were on the whole the most satisfactory since American occupation, the report says.

The infant mortality in the city of Manila was 165 per thousand births as compared with 326 in the period from 1915 to 1919. In the provinces the infant mortality rate showed a decrease of 70 per thousand births, being 157 or the lowest since 1916.

In Manila the general mortality was thirty per thousand as compared with 125 per thousand as compared with 1919. In the provinces the greatest decrease in the mortality rate was shown, the general rate being 20.67 per thousand which is less than one half the rate of 1918 and 5.57 lower than the rate for 1919.

SOVIET HELPED TO BRING ON RUSSIAN FAMINE IS CLAIM

Requisition of Grain for Red
Troops, as Well as Drought,
Blamed for Shortage

LITTLE VILLAGES SUFFER MORE THAN THE CITIES

People Eating Bread made from Roots, Nuts and Bark

LAMARA, ON THE VOLGA. By a Staff Correspondent of The Associated Press. A constant requisitioning of grain by the Red army and other authorities, as well as the lack of rainfall, was a chief cause of the great famine in this section of Russia, according to the peasant farmers. They say the Soviet, itself, helped kill the goose that laid the golden eggs.

The story of the famine and its most intense miseries cannot be had in the cities. It is only in the little villages, where the farm workers live and where the famine had its origin, that the truth, bare, hard, bitter and crushing, can be ascertained.

The story of the village of Nova Semiklino, 16 miles from Lamsara, is typical of many the correspondent visited up and down the Volga. Rilling out across the rich, rolling farmland, swept by cold winds from the east, but still beautiful in the golden autumn, the forests shot with deep brown, the grass yet green and upon it herds of cattle and horses, with here and there patches of fields ploughed and sowed with spring wheat, one arrived at this village struggling for a half mile along the two sides of the main road.

A heavy silence envelops the village. Many of its one-story log-cabin homes, each shut off from the other by high rail fences, enclosing a quarter-acre plot for chickens, cows, wagons and barns, are shut, the windows boarded and the doors locked.

Midway in the village the correspondent stopped, knocked at the door of an occupied home. The peasant said the village was composed of 250 houses, 50 of which had been deserted by the owners going elsewhere for food. Two years earlier the richer peasants had worked each about 500 acres of land but now they farmed but three acres. Normally, the yield was 60 to 80 bushels of grain per acre each year, whereas this summer the harvest had been but about 10 pounds. Last year the harvest had been about four bushels of grain to each three acres.

At that point, the peasant, a tall, raw-boned man, thinned by lack of food, began to get angry. The Red army of Samara, he said, had last December ordered the village to contribute about 5,800 bushels of grain, for which no payment was to be received. The village hadn't been able to supply all this requisition but offered part. So the Red army came and took the amount of the requisition.

The village was left without seed grain, though it was promised from Samara, and was also without food for the winter. To get bread, in December, the villagers began selling off their valuables, and eating their cattle and sheep. As the winter deepened, the famine set in and the poor or villagers began to boil up old skins and hides from furs, even the soles of old boots and shoes.

When last spring Samara failed to furnish much seed grain, and the peasants sold more valuables to buy a little. One way or another they had thirty six pounds of seed grain per three acres. Then came a dry spring and a dry summer, with a scant harvest. The rain came after the harvest.

The peasant, citing the way of the Soviet requisitions, said 52,000 pounds of potatoes had been taken and locked up in the basement of the church and there spoiled.

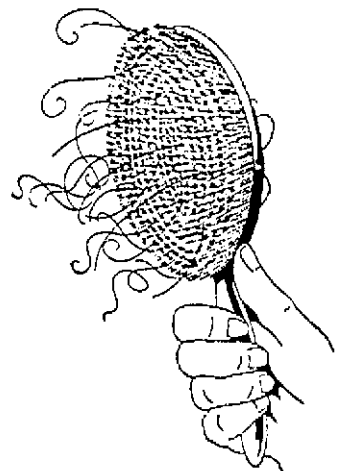

The worst of it was, he said, that in the face of their starvation, the Samara Soviet had just ordered the village to furnish three to six pounds of butter for each cow owned. Yet the only food for the cows was field grass, and most of them no longer gave milk.

The villagers were eating fruit, cucumbers, pumpkins, and bread made from roots, nuts, and tree bark. They had enough for two or three weeks longer. "A pound of bread cannot be had here, no, not for 1,000,000 rubles," they declared.

The villagers were suffering from stomach disorders, and asked for assistance.

SUPERVISORS TABLE HOUSING COMPANY'S GREEN ACRES OFFER

Turn Down Proposition to Sell
80 acres of Land for
$44,000

By a vote of 34 to 2, the county board, at a meeting held Monday afternoon, turned down the proposition from the La Crosse Housing Corporation to sell Green Acres, a tract of approximately 80 acres, adjacent to the county poor farm, to La Crosse county. A resolution was offered by Supervisor Moore, stating that the tract has been offered to the county for $44,000. The resolution was tabled by an almost unanimous vote.

A resolution of Supervisor LaPlante that $17,500 be appropriated for "other" pensions, was passed unanimously. Other appropriations passed were $500 for the traveling library, and the transfer of $92.05 of the library funds of last year that were unexpended to the new fund. Supervisor Dawson, $800 for the Soldier's Relief Commission, 5th Council, secretary; $17,050 for the county poor farm; Supervisor Dunsmuir, $70 for a checkwriting machine for county clerk; Supervisor Moore, $5,000 for county nurse and county health committee.

The board voted to continue the present scale of bonuses for the killing of animal pests and rattlesnakes. J. L. Thompson, trustee of the Oak Point sanatorium, presented a statement showing the estimated disbursement for the ensuing year would be $81,000; total receipts, $15,000, with a balance from the county of $46,000.

Supervisor Portingill asked for an appropriation of $500 for the Social Service society and La Crosse County branch of the Wisconsin Humane society. The resolution was referred to the ways and means committee. Supervisor Swain presented a resolution asking for $8,800 for circuit court expenses, including $400 for law library books, referred to finance committee.

Mayor Bentley, in a short speech to the county board, asked that the assessment be kept as low as possible as the city would be burdened in 1923.

and 1923 with school bonds that would mature then and that a $500,000 levy this year would inconvenience the city. The mayor said that it would take six mills this year to pay bond interest and retire bonds.

Leonard Kleber, clerk of circuit court, in his annual report, stated that the total of all certificates for the past year amounted to $7,308.05, not receipts for the county treasurer, $1450.73, net expenses, $5,858.22.
